Third cruiser was set afire and was left burning. It is announced that no British ships were lost in the battle and that the British loss of life was heavy.

FRENCH LINES AGAIN PIERCED BY GERMANS AT SPOT NEAR ARRAS

Report of Teuton Origin Claims That Enemy Has Put Allies to Rout—Boulogne Dispatch Says General Joffre's Army Filled Up With Rapidity and Had the Situation Well in Hand—Vienna Stated to Be Preparing for Siege.

London, Aug. 28.—(4.50 a.m.)—A despatch to the Times from Boulogne says it is asserted that German troops, presumably cavalry, through the French lines near Arras, in the province of Pas de Calais. The French moved up with rapidity, it is declared, and have the situation well in hand.

The despatch says that the allied troops are being swiftly arranged to deal with any further attempt to break through the line beyond Dunkirk and Lille.

Stated English Army Defeated.

Berlin, Aug. 28.—(By wireless to the Associated Press, Via Sayville, L.I., Aug. 28.—(7.46 a.m.)—Headquarters has issued an official report declaring that the western enemy has everywhere been defeated and is in full retreat after nine days fighting.

General von Kluck defeated the English army at Maubeuge, renewed the attack today and threatened to surround it.

Generals Von Buelow and Von Hausen completely defeated the Franco-Belgian forces, about eight corps between the Sambre and Meuse in several days battle and are now pursuing them to the eastward of Maubeuge.

The attack on Maubeuge was opened by the Grand Duke Albrecht of Wurttemberg who defeated and pursued the enemy across the Sambre and the Meuse.

The German crown prince, advancing toward the Meuse and the cradle of Bavaria, repulsed an attack from Nancy and the south. General Von Hereingen continues the pursuit southward through the Vosges.

Four Belgian divisions attacking Tuesday and Wednesday from Antwerp have been repulsed, losing guns and many prisoners. The Belgian population generally participated in the fighting necessitating severe repressive measures.

The corps of the last reserves have been called out to guard communications.

Invaders Burn Buildings.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Official despatches to the state department from Antwerp tonight tell of the firing of several buildings in the Belgian city of Louvain by the invading Germans. A Gothic temple, the public hall, city library and other buildings were destroyed, the report stated.

Start Fortification Work.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 28.—News has reached here to the effect that the Austrians have begun extensive fortification work along the Danube near Vienna on the pretext that it is necessary to relieve the needs of the populace by providing work.

English Losses Are Heavy.

BULLETIN—London, Aug. 28.—(12.45 p.m.)—Premier Asquith announced in the house of commons today that the British troops in Wednesday's fighting were exposed to the attack of five German army corps. The losses on both sides, he said, were great.

Says Once Point Between Metz, Meizers and Verdun Penetrated Defence Eastern France Broken

Times Military Correspondent Allies Have Every Right to Expect Victory Today—One Consequence German Advance, He Says, Would Mean Establishment Aircraft Stations Along the Straights of Dover, When England Would Be Kept in Constant Observation.

London, Aug. 28.—(4:45 a.m.)—Times military correspondent in discussing the situation in the French front states:

"The news that the allies have retired to the line from Lorient to Cambrai shows that active defence on the lines from Lille to Maubeuge will establish aircraft stations along the Straits of Dover and thereby be able to keep the enemy constantly under observation. We must expect that attack by a counter attack with searchlights and anti-aircraft guns. Spartans should take care of themselves."

"The Germans will also mount their heaviest guns at any port they seize and once more there will be an army encamped on the head of the Seine, which may however be grateful for one reason. The international financiers, doctrinaires, and lunatics who wished fit us out with a channel tunnel are silenced for good and all."

BLAST OF BELGIUM LEAD SHRIVELS GREY COLUMNS LIKE AUTUMN LEAVES

Story of Inferno at Battle of Malines Brings Home Horrors of Modern Warfare—Uhlans Demons Seen to Rush on Innocent Farmers Drilling Innumerable Holes With Bayonets Through Bodies of Unfortunate Victims—Heroic Foolhardiness and Stoic Bravery Displayed by Outnumbered Plucky Belgians.

(Capital Leased Wire.)

Antwerp, Aug. 28.—E. Alexander Powell, a war correspondent, who witnessed the battle of Malines between the Germans and Belgians, sends the following story:

"The helmeted legions of the Kaiser, driven out of Malines on Tuesday were reinforced Wednesday and before their overwhelming onset the Belgians gallantly gave way and retreated with chins on shoulders. I write of what I saw with my own eyes, as I had the distinction of being the only American correspondent permitted to accompany the forces, the government placing a military car at my disposal.

"The battle of Malines in which four Belgian divisions, totalling 50,000 men, contended with a considerably stronger force of Germans, was fought in that wonderfully beautiful region five miles south of the famous lace city and a dozen miles from Brussels.

"To get a clear conception of the battle one must picture a 50-foot high railway embankment, its steeply sloping sides heavily wooded, stretching across a smiling, fertile countryside like a monstrous green snake. On this line run fast trains from Antwerp to Brussels.

"Malines, with its historic buildings and famous cathedral, lies on one side of this embankment, and Wilwerde on the other, four miles separating them.

Rashly Took Offensive.

"On Tuesday the Belgians, believing the German communications to be poorly guarded and the German garrison in Brussels too weak to resist them, rashly saluted from the shelter of Antwerp defences and took the offensive like a terrier striking a bulldog.

"They drove the Germans from Malines, but the Germans brought up a fresh army corps and yesterday morning the Belgians found themselves in a perilous position. The battle hinged on the possession of the embankment and was fought along ten-mile front.

"The battle began at dawn with an artillery duel across the embankment. By noon the cannonade was terrific. The Germans got the range and a rain of shrapnel burst about the Belgian batteries, which limbered up and retired at a trot in perfect order.

"I could see dark blue masses of Belgian infantry falling back, cool as on a winter's morning. Through a mistake, the two battalions of carabiniers did not receive the order to retire and were in imminent danger of destruction.

"Then they charged.

"To fetch them a messenger would have to traverse a mile of open road swept by shrill-shrieking shrapnel. A colonel mounted a heavy steed, and spur to his horse and tore down the road, an arched fury in towering bearskin.

"It was a terrible race, the jaws of death to save his troops, but he fell back the German gunners got the range and dropped shell upon shell into the running column. Road and fields were dotted with corpses in Belgian blue."

"Several times the Germans attempted to carry to the embankment with bayonets, but the Belgians met them with the motor running.

"The German gunners had advanced with a terrible fire. The air was filled with whining shrapnel; farm houses collapsed amidst piles of smoke and ashes. They also were scattered in a dozen places with the amoks of burning dwellings.

"Suddenly a soldier shouting, 'Hurry, hurry,' ran across. 'Uhlans!' From a screen of wood along the embankment burst a long line of gray figures hoarsely cheering. At that moment I heard a split of stone above me, in the village below, and my chauffeur screamed: 'Hurry for your life, monsieur, the Uhlans are upon us.'

"I took the wheel and my chauffeur screamed: 'Hurry for your life, monsieur, the Uhlans are upon us.'

"I took the wheel and my chauffeur screamed: 'Hurry for your life, monsieur, the Uhlans are upon us.'

"The railway embankment from which I viewed the battle was carpeted with corpses. Belgian infantrymen lay dead before me. The corps were terribly bayoneted.

"The retreat from Malines was a never to be forgotten flight. For 20 miles our road was jammed with Belgians and their women, refugees and their children, all crawling over the ground and rambling, giving their cloaks covered with green shrubs to mask their position.

"Gendarmes with giant bayonets, mounted in their cars, carried off the bodies of machine gunners drawn by dogs, ambulances with red cross flags, and cars, carts, wagons—all the dear old familiar things of war—they continued to form a mighty human river flowing Antwerp-ward.

"Malines has a population of 50,000 and 45,000 refugees from their homes are streaming back. Still along the road were pathetic beyond description. Children and aged, rich and poor, lame and blind, with their few belongings on their backs or piled in pushcarted roads, and impeded the soldiers.

"Those people were abandoning all luck they held dear to plague and destruction.

"They were completely terrorized by the Germans. But the Belgian army is not terrorized. And a fighting army, not a military in retreat.

"This army, cool, confident, courageous, and if the German giant leaves himself unguarded a single instant, little Belgium will drive home a solar plexus blow."

A serious reverse to British arms on the French frontier is officially announced in Berlin. After nine days fighting the Germans claim to have put the western line of the allies to flight. The English, it is asserted, were defeated at Maubeuge, France, and the Franco-Belgian forces driven back toward Maubeuge.

Belgians retreat from Nancy and from Antwerp were repelled, it is declared. Field Marshal von François, commanding chief of the Belgian expeditionary force, reports that his troops were attacked by first German army corps and cavalry Wednesday in the neighborhood of Cambrai and Lacaune, and that their casualties were heavy. He does not state the outcome of the battle. Cambrai and Lacaune are French towns about ten miles southwest of Maubeuge. A description of the battle of fighting reported by Field Marshal French and announced in the house of commons by Premier Asquith today fits in with the battles as indicated at Berlin.

An English correspondent at Lille, France, says that the advance guard of the Franco-Belgian forces, under General A. J. de Marchienne, French towns just south of Lille on the department of Dunder.

A newspaper despatch from Boulogne reports that the Germans broke through the French lines near Arras, in the province of Pas De Calais, but that they have been driven back again in hand-to-hand combat.

British marines are in force at Ostend. A press despatch from that town says that the Germans are within 20 miles of the place.

King Charles of Romania is reported seriously ill.

German troops are reported as taking the offensive in Belgian Congo.

The Russian military attack at Paris is credited with the statement that additional Russian armies are about to invade western Prussia with the intention of marching on Berlin.

METEORIC CAREER OF FAST JOCKEY
WILLIAM ALLAN

One Time Farm Boy Won
114 Races Out of

It is a far cry from a little country boy born and raised on a farm, where he used to drive the cows to pasture, to the premier steeplechase rider of America. Jockey William Allan has bridged the chasm in less than 25 years.

He has won races worth nearly $45,000 since he began riding steeplechases in 1906. He has ridden 671 races, winning 114, or an average of sixteen per year. The steeplechase rider has had in this country.

Sitting in the Aqueduct paddock, he told some of the incidents of his career as a jockey.

Born in Illinois

"I was born in McLean, Illinois, 25 years ago," said Allan. "I did not doubt about it, I am a native of that state. I was born there, and the first colony of Italians came to see the party off and to whom them when the Canadian Northern Central Railway George M. Hall was there, too. The Italian colony being an enterprise in which he is sharply interested. In which he has a close association with Italian by birth, and of having some years of this class as laborers for some years and by speaking the language, and say, 'Barbary'! Speaking of this first colony of Italians in western Canada Hall said:

Colony Will Do Well

"They will do well, no doubt about it, and I am more than pleased to see the first colony of Italians come out from Edmonton and settle in the Edmonton district. Italians are not known and understood in western Canada, and those who should be. The immigration authorities do not represent them at all to point out what has taken place in several districts in the dominion department of immigration."

"But I believe this colony of Italians in the Edmonton district will be successful, and I am sure that the Italian will be a colonizer and agriculturist. For myself, I have no call to be convinced of their worth, I have seen progress often in New England, where the Italian is generally poor and sterile, Italians have taken the very poorest land and have made it pay. They have a great deal to offer the country which practically all the Italians of Edmonton—about 800—will probably join as soon as it is demonstrated that the colonization scheme is a success."

"Of this there is little doubt, the Italians have proven themselves adept in agricultural cultivation and developing the land. They are a born farmer and gardener and takes to agriculture as naturally as he takes to music. With the rich soil and favorable climate of western Canada, the disposal there is no cause for fear that the Edmonton colony will fail. The financial arrangements have been made for five or six local Italian led by Mr. Biller and Mr. de Angelis.

Well Supplied With Means

"Through the ambitious work of these men, the colony will be well supplied with everything necessary to make it a success. Mr. de Angelis went along to give his engineering skill of designing buildings and structures and to act as a director of building operations until the party shall have become established in their winter quarters. It is proposed to build a large house for all to live in at first, and as soon as the European war is over, the Italian government will be asked for encouragement of the plan in Italy. This scheme has all the elements of success."

"They have made good in many other ways as well. Thirty years ago there were very few Italians in New England, and those were mainly poor. Today there are thousands—and they are active in every walk of life. Some of the best and greatest business men in New England are of Italian extraction, and there is no cause for fear that the Edmonton colony will fail. The financial arrangements have been made for five or six local Italian led by Mr. Biller and Mr. de Angelis.

George Sends Sympathy To Belgium Monarch On Bombing Outrage

(Capital Pressed Wire)

London, Aug. 25.—An attorney in dispatch to Reuter Telegraph company, says that King Albert of Belgium has received the following message from King George:

"I am grieved to hear of the danger you have run from the throwing of bombs. I hope that the queen and the royal family will be safe. I am following with great admiration the great deeds of your brave army."

There has been some doubt since the side with Britain. There is, however, before the Athabasca train pulled out, no doubt as to where the sons of sun would go. The picture shows the vanguard of western Canada's first Italian colony, which will settle near Lac la Biche.

In Selecting Your Afternoon Gown

A great deal depends upon the personal attention you get from your gown maker or dealers of ready-made gowns, and upon whether she gives you honest and disinterested advice. Style is style and fit is fit, but all styles are not becoming to everyone and there are different degrees of "fit."

The next time you are ready to order an afternoon gown, suppose you glance through the Capital. Those ads are the ads of specialists who will be very glad to give your work unusual care and their best individual attention. They are the advertisers that are making money.

Thousands of Edmonton's best dressed women have gotten the habit of reading Capital announcements every day, for in that way they not only pick up bargains but they get acquainted with just the kind of shopkeepers they've long been looking for.

CONSERVATION, THE MACHINE GUN AND OMAR KHAYYAM.

In the midst of it all comes to hand a little booklet published by the conservation department at Ottawa. It is labeled "Conservation of Life," and incorporated in its pages is much sound advice upon the necessity for proper regulations governing the milk supply of cities, town planning, how to deal with slums, the danger from occupational diseases, and the advantage to growing children of a holiday in the country. The foreword says that nineteen-twentieths of the things which occupy our attention, aside from the ordinary work of securing a living, do not matter very much. "One of the few things that does matter," so the text says, "is the preservation of life and health. At the root of all happiness of the individual and of the nation is the preservation of life and health." It is a very wise little booklet indeed; one which commends itself to the good sense of anyone who can spare the time from a perusal of the war dispatches to look into its columns, and is indicative of the very good work that Clifford Sifton's department is doing for the health and happiness of the Canadian branch of the human family.

But just at this juncture, with the world ablaze with war, while men are being set up in rows to be mowed down with machine guns, while the newspaper columns overflow with the dripping details of the slaughter which is drenching a continent with blood, the stunning antithesis seems to cast something in the nature of irony upon the chaste little booklet and its solicitous considerateness for the life and health of the handful of individuals who constitute the Canadian nation.

When the Titanic went down, and 1,300 hundred souls were launched into oblivion, the world gasped with horror at the stupendousness of the tragedy, and maritime architects all over the world were set scampering to test out their safety appliances lest they find that the much-advertised protection afforded to voyagers on the seas was not equal to the advance notices. But now-a-days, with the deadly use of the most modern machines of destruction, they heap that many dead opposite a single trench and the mechanicians cudgel their brains for inventions to accelerate the slaughter.

Omar Khayyam, in the years of long, long ago, developed a negative philosophy which led to the mental stage of abandonment which asks "What's the use?" Since Omar, Carthage and Alexandria have come and gone, Greece and Rome have risen, flourished for a spell and fallen. Civilizations have blossomed into glory to go to seed—and hand down Omar's philosophy, down through the ages. And in this day, placing the little booklet with its humanitarian directions for the preservation of health and life, alongside the details of the latest slaughter, one wonders if, after all, the old Persian seer was not more than half right? Or what is it all about, anyway?

A HUMILIATING EPITAPH TO GERMAN HOPES SACRIFICED

The Kaiser William Der Grosse has been sunk on the coast of Africa, say the dispatches, and with this sea lane of the Atlantic are cleared of any menace from German fighting machines.

The incident is epic of the outstanding feature of the war.

Germany has been extending herself for years in the effort to build up a merchant marine and a foreign trade. Her ambition was for supremacy in the world's commerce. In an era of peace her ships were sent into every sea. Germany was becoming a factor in world trade. Her dream seemed on a fair way to being realized, when a militarist despotism at home, impatient of the progress that was being made through industrialism and commerce, hurls the world into conflict from which it hoped that Germany would emerge instantaneously supreme through the fortunes of war. But the die having been cast, Germany finds herself suddenly in the position of being unable to protect the merchant marine which her people had so toilsomely built up in times of peace. More than two hundred German craft have already been captured. Five hundred of them are in hiding, having scurried to neutral ports or being now en route to some neutral haven of safety where they may in uselessness await the close of the war.

The Kaiser William was one of the triumphs of German ambitions on the high seas, a palatial and most magnificent ship symbol of the new spirit of Germany. In the paths of peaceful commerce she was scoring victories for Germany. But she was taken from peaceful commerce where she had been useful to Germany and thrust into the futile and wasteful business of war. Now she is at the bottom, and the story of her sinking constitutes a humiliating epitaph to German hopes sacrificed upon the altar of Germany's absurd greed to obtain instantaneous triumph in the world's trade through the red route of war.

NOT INJURED IN A BUSINESS SENSE

The aggregate of Canada's external trade is something over one thousand million dollars a year. Of this only about four millions last year was with Germany and less than a half a million dollars' worth with Austria. Nearly four hundred million dollars of Canada's external trade is with Great Britain and over six hundred million with United States. Compared with these two, the total of the business done with the rest of the world is insignificant. The trade routes to Great Britain are open and as safe as they ever were, and transfer across the United States boundary line has not been affected except in the very minutest degree.

Except that she must change her base in a financial respect and do her borrowing for constructive projects in United States, where she can get the money, Canada's position is not altered by the war in a business sense. There is no ground whatever for conclusion to the contrary.

JUST PARAGRAPHS.

The Bulletin saw an air ship passing over the city the other night. As a horrible example, the Bulletin is a complete argument in favor of closing the bars during war time.

The Adventures of Kathlyn

By Harold MacGrath.

SNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.

Kathlyn Hare, believing her father, Col. Bruce, in peril, has summoned her leaves for the capital to go to him. In Allah, India, Umballah, pretender to the throne of that principality, has imprisoned Kathlyn's father, and holds him as his slave because he fears the American may interfere with his plans.

Upon her arrival in Allah, Kathlyn is informed by Umballah that Col. Bruce has died, and that he has married Kathlyn's mother.

She goes to Umballah, who finds her in a state of depression, and she is again a prisoner.

Umballah, however, releases her, and the two go to the British Consulate, where Kathlyn is given a room.

There they meet the British Consul, Mr. Bruce, and his son, Tom, who is engaged in the service of the British government.

Formidable Lines of Defence Along Border—French Have Lots Food.

(New York Sun)

As a result of the recent and crushing defeat of France in 1913, the master of opportunity defence was carefully studied by the council of defense, which is composed of the chief of staff, the minister of war, the chief of the navy, the chief of the army, the chief of the air force, and the chief of the marine.

The Belgian border was protected by the guarantees of neutrality by the European powers, so the first efforts were given to the German frontier, which was considered to be the most vulnerable point of attack.

The writer has been requested to act as a local representative and, pending the arrival of the press corps, to keep the citizens and philanthropic organizations who have been considering this question fully advised.

ASKS CITIZENS AWAIT ARRIVAL ORGANIZATION PLANS FROM OTTAWA

To the Editor of the Capital:—The citizens of Edmonton will read in the papers the message of the Duke of Connaught with reference to the formation of a national organization to provide for the dependents of those who have gone to the front.

It is very important that this duty should not be left to the unorganized efforts of individual citizens or even to the merely local organizations acting independently. For these reasons, I present to the Canadian government the following plan:

"The writer has been requested to act as a local representative and, pending the arrival of the press corps, to keep the citizens and philanthropic organizations who have been considering this question fully advised.

WAR DECLARATION BY AUSTRIA SAID BE BIG SURPRISE

In Tokio Country Has Always Been Regarded as Friendly With Japan.

YUEN SHI KAI STATED IS SATISFIED WITH PLEDGES

Feeling Prevails That Japs Will Be Able to Control Revolutionary Leaders.

(Special to the Capital)

Tokio, Aug. 28.—The news of the declaration of war by Austria-Hungary on Japan, following the official announcement of the sinking of the Austrian cruiser Kaiserin Elisabeth in the port of Tsingtao, caused surprise in Tokio. It had been hoped that Austria-Hungary, in its desire to expand its influence in the far east, would not force a breach of relations with Japan, especially as Austria-Hungary had been friendly to Japan.

UMPIRE WHEELER GIVES MOOSE JAW MILLERS GAME OVER ESKIMOS

Decision at Plate is Turning Point in Yesterday's Game.

Moose Jaw, Aug. 27.—There were two decisions that marked the Miller win over Edmonton yesterday by a 5 to 1 score. One was an unpleasant incident that occurred in the third inning of the other, a triple play, and the second, the first, was caused by Umpire Wheeler's decision to run by Kurfess. It was claimed by the Edmonton team that Kurfess never reached the plate, so he was not entitled to a base. The referee said he did. There was a hot dispute for some time, and Lemieux was ordered off, but the police had to call him before he could be got out of the dugout. The decision gave Moose Jaw three runs, Millon and Whisman also getting home. In the final session Ruell was on second, and Chico on first. Howie, a limerick, by a piece of play, Augustus to Price, the three men were retired.
